

Conference on Managing Economic Crisis in Southeast Asia

Jointly organised by

Saw Centre for Quantitative Finance &
Institute of Southeast Asian Studies

Friday, 29th January 2010

8:30am - 5:00pm

NUSS Kent Ridge Guild House,
National University of Singapore

The East Asian Institute (EAI) and the Saw Centre for Quantitative Finance (SCQF) at the National University of Singapore jointly organised the Conference on Managing Economic Crisis in East Asia in November 2009, with papers on Japan, South Korea, Taiwan, Hong Kong and China. This parallel Conference on Managing Economic Crisis in Southeast Asia is jointly organised by the Institute of Southeast Asian Studies (ISEAS) and the Saw Centre for Quantitative Finance. For this Conference, we have assembled a panel of distinguished speakers to discuss in detail the impact of the global financial crisis on the economies of the region in general as well as on individual countries.

During the economic crisis, each country has implemented its own stimulus packages to boost domestic demand and support local industries adversely affected by the crisis. This Conference is designed to analyse the nature of the economic downturn, the stimulus packages put in place, the results of these responses, and the possible collaboration among the Southeast Asian economies to achieve steady growth in the future.
